About PMI Australia Conference 2014

On behalf of the PMI Chapters across Australia, we welcome you to join us in showcasing the second PMI Australia Conference from Monday 8 Sept 2014 to Wednesday 10 Sept 2014 at the Melbourne Crown Conference Centre, with an expected attendance of between 250 and 400 delegates.

Jeff Kennett, former Premier of Victoria, patron of a number of community organisations and Chairman of beyondblue will be our opening keynote speaker.

He will be joined by best-selling author Margie Warrell, current PMI chair Ricardo Triana and Mark Wild, CEO of Public Transport Victoria. This will be a unique opportunity for project management professionals, students, sponsors and speakers to gain and provide valuable insights into the latest developments in this ever evolving industry while based in an energetic environment designed to get people to Connect, Collaborate, Create!

Benefits to attendees

- Access to global thought leadership on industry tools, trends and benchmarking
- Network with other professionals across Australia involved in or reliant upon Project Management services
- Attendance at Workshops to be held on the Wednesday 10th September
- Be recognised for contribution and support the project management profession via the PMI Awards ceremonies to be held on Tuesday 9th September at the Melbourne Arts Centre
- World class educational opportunities
- Access to many of the featured speakers in “meet the speaker”, Q&A and networking sessions
- Project delivery capability insights for organisations
- Accrue valuable PDUs to maintain your PMI credentials

What is the theme?

The PMIAC14 theme is “Connect, Collaborate, Create”, where the underpinning message is “through authentic networking and effective collaboration we create something significantly more valuable”. The underlying behaviours are authenticity and respect. It emphasizes the need to network, to adapt, to lead and follow and ultimately to generate a product or service that meets or even exceeds expectations.

We expect some of our speakers will be controversial and challenging to promote creative thought. The PMIAC14 conference is an opportunity to connect with professionals who seek fresh thinking in an environment where they can acquire information and put new learning into immediate practice.

Who should attend?

Project Managers belong to a diverse range of industry sectors namely IT, Telecommunications, Higher Education, Government, Banking and Finance, Insurance, Superannuation, Defence, Health, Legal, Engineering and many more.

PMI membership comprises of senior leaders, experienced project management professionals – project managers, program managers, project/program directors, PMO managers, independent consultants, graduates, students and academic staff. We welcome everyone interested in project management.

PMIAC14 looks forward to your active participation.

PMI® developed the renowned PMBOK® (Project Management Body of Knowledge) through collaboration with expert Project Management practitioners across the globe. It is the foundation of many in-house project management methodologies for many leading international consulting companies.

In Australia PMI® has over 8000 members* and credential holders.

PMI® offers a range of services to the Project Management profession such as the development of standards, research, education, publication, networking-opportunities in local chapters, hosting conferences and training seminars, and maintaining multiple credentials in project management.

AUSTRALIA CONFERENCE

PMI® is the
LARGEST
project management organisation in the world with more than 700,000
members and credential holders

Projects are a core part of almost every organisation's ability to deliver business strategy. According to the Economist Intelligence Unit, in 2013 approx. 12 USD trillion was invested in projects, representing approx. 25% of the world's economy, with the involvement of 20 million professionals in project activities.

PMI® actively accesses global thought leadership in industry trends, how they relate to project delivery and to the advancement of the Project Management profession.

PMI® is renowned for its quality of keynote speakers at its Global Congresses and local conferences. Past speakers include Bill Clinton, Colin Powell and Dan Pink.

The three day program is consistent with the PMI® principles of continuous improvement, staying current and relevant to organisations and individuals.
